

COW - HORIZON PROJECT

2006-2005, various places, the Netherlands

This project was conceived as part of the 2nd International Architecture Biennale Rotterdam. Three eight-metre-high inflatable cows are placed along the main highways in the Randstad – the conglomeration of cities that together make up a metropole - as reminders of the unique Dutch horizon. They draw attention to the fact that this ancient manmade landscape is not only of great cultural importance but also essential as a place for self-reflection.

client

International Architecture Biennale Rotterdam

team

Adriaan Geuze, Jerry van Eyck, Martin Biewenga, Edzo Bindels, Karsten Buchholz, Rudolph Eilander, Anna Holder, Joost Koningen, Sander Lap, Fanny Lindeboom-Smelik, Andrew Tang, Annette van 't Hof, Maarten van de Voorde, Marco van der Pluym, Jonas Vanneste, Joris Weijs